Things to Consider

A good financial planner is one who can help you chart a course for all your financial needs.

- In which aspects of your financial life do you need assistance? Are you focused on retirement planning, debt repayment, insurance, or estate planning?
- Look for advisors who adhere to a fiduciary duty. Are they legally obligated to act in your best interest?
- Consider how advisors charge for their services. Whether it's an annual fee, hourly rate, or commission, make sure their offerings match your specific needs.

Steps of the Financial Process

The process is pretty simple.

- Set up an initial discovery meeting to identify your specific needs
- Design a plan specific to your goals
- Deliver and implement that plan
- Follow up with quarterly or biannual implementation meetings to discuss progress and any changes.
